Worn Interiors

The condition of an interior is seen as a representation of the owner and company. Refurbishment cost can usually be recouped and will help sell the plane faster. Don't let your damages and faded interior bring down the enjoyment or value of your investment.

Who We Service

- Owners/Operators
- Mobile Technicians
- Charter Companies
- Fixed Base Operators
- Fractional Share Operators
- Commercial Airline Operators
- Aircraft Management Companies

Our Process

The SEM SURE-COAT™ process restores aircraft interior leathers, vinyl and plastics at a fraction of the cost of replacement. Our process cleans, repairs and restores interiors to a like new condition without changing the aircraft's burn certification. All products have passed vertical burn testing requirements under Federal Aviation Regulations and have been shown not to add flammability to the aircraft interior surfaces.

About Us

For over 60 years, SEM employees have been producing high quality coating for the automotive industry. It is no surprise that SURE-COAT made its way into the Aerospace industry as well. SURE-COAT is recommended by Boeing for interior decorative coatings (BAC 5755) and is also used by many commercial airlines. Chances are, if you've traveled on a commercial airline in the last couple of years, you've already flown with SEM! Due to the flexibility of SURE-COAT, you wouldn't know the difference between a new seat and one that has been professionally restored with the SEM process.

FAA Certified Repairs Stations

Find a SEM certified FBO near you for cleaning, repairing and redyeing your interior. SEM certified repair stations are able to work on your airplane's interior without additional FAA approval. This will save you valuable time and thousands of dollars.

If you are an FBO interested in using our products, ask us about our SEM Certified Shop Program.
